

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

The decline of public participation in elections and other democratic exercises among the US population is directly proportional to the to media ownership deregulation and concentration. There should be more public-interest media ownership regulation, not less.